Home Again.
Dr. E. T. WASGATT,
(From the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery,) having had the rooms formerly occupied by him at 2 1-2 Kenduskeag Bridge,
But which was burned out in the recent fire, repaired, remodeled, and fitted up in the best manner, with all the modern instruments and appliances for the performance of all kinds of operations in Dentistry, begs leave to inform his old friends and patrons, and the public generally, that he is at home again in the same old spot, where he would be happy to see them and wait upon them with anything wanted in the Dentistry line.
He would call special attention to his new apparatus for generating Nitrous Oxide Gas, Sprague's Patent;—the only generator that makes a pure and tasteless gas, and the only one of the kind ever in this city.
He continues also his specialty of administering ether spray, which is fast taking the place of the old method of inhalation, being entirely safe to the most delicate persons.
Please give him a call at his new rooms.

PURE TEAS.
Just Received
FROM JAPAN AND CHINA,
—BY THE—
Mutual Store Company,
No. 22 & 24 Central Street,
Large invoices of fresh and very elegant flavored New Teas, imported by the most direct route, and selected by an American agent of the highest integrity and undoubted skill, sent out to China expressly to guard against, and if possible, protect the American consumers of this delicious plant from the persistent and consummate frauds practiced by the Chinaman, in curing and packing Teas for the American Market. And most wonderfully has he succeeded in preventing and exposing John Chinaman's rascality, as one trial of our Teas will well attest, prices lower than can be found elsewhere in New England.

ALSO,
PURE COFFEES,
of the choicest grades, imported expressly for the "Mutual Store Co.," from "Mocha," "Java," "Ceylon," "Rio," and "Porto Cabello," and can be sold for one profit only, which brings our Coffee lower in price than can be found at any other Store in the Country.

Our Roasted Coffee
is all prepared by an American House of long standing, and whose reputation for honesty and determined integrity, is above all reproach, or suspicion, and are not allowed to pass through the hands of the Chinamen, where they would be sure to receive the villainous adulteration. Sure to suit. Try them. Our are already well known in this community, and are well appreciated. N. O.

We have also a very large and carefully selected Stocks of all kinds of goods catering into the stock of first-class Grocery Store, and a customer at our Store can buy not only Tea, Coffee, Spices, Saleratus, and a few such articles, but also Molasses of all grades, Syrups, Pork and Lard, Kerosene Oil, Flour, Meal, Butter, Eggs, and all kinds of country produce, everything in the Wooden Ware line, from a ten cent Basket to a Clothes-horse, also, English fish, English Pickles, English Mustards, English Sauce for your fresh meat, Sardines, Lobsters and Oysters in cans. Tomatoes in cans, and very cheap, all kinds of canned fruit; Jellies in Tumblers, a large stock of Raspberry Shrub, just the thing now wanted (except from Wingate) Burnett's, Knights', Lewis', and other flavoring extracts, Preston's Cocoas, and finally everything pertaining to a real
First Class Grocery Store,
and sold at prices that defy competition.
Our clerks are all real Yankees, and will be found at all times ready and willing to attend politely to all who may favor us with a call; and speaking of that, the proprietor himself is not slow.

VALUABLE
Timber Lands
And Mill Property
FOR SALE.
THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of all his interest in Timber Lands and mills, will sell on favorable terms the following:
One-Half Township No. 5, Range 4, Oxford County.
The whole township contains twenty-six thousand (26,000) acres; is heavily timbered with spruce, estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within near and easy hauling distance of the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, or Parmachenee Lake, which is embraced within its limits.
Also 16,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron, Oxford Co., well covered with large Spruce timber; Swift river and its branches run through these lands and empty into the Androscoggin below Rumford Falls.
Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.
two miles above the Alpine House, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railroad and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on these lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is steadily increasing in value.
Also 2500 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham.
near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling Pine timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Saccarappa, or, by hauling four to five miles they can be put into the Saco. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract; distance to the canal, at Harrison, ten miles; to the railroad at South Paris twelve miles. The land is valuable for settling purposes after being cleared of timber.
Also 435 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 827 shares. The property of the company consists of a Steam Saw Mill, capable of manufacturing five million feet of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and laths. About fifteen acres land in the city of Lewiston, well located for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of timber land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of the timber has been cut.

THE DUEL BETWEEN FRANCE AND GERMANY."
BY HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

The following is an abstract of the lecture delivered by Hon. Charles Sumner, at Music Hall, Boston, on Wednesday evening last on the "Duel between France and Germany with its Lessons to Civilization:"—

Mr. Sumner began his lecture by stating and quoting from classical authority in support of his assertion, that war, under the law of nations, was simply a duel. He then touched on the suddeness of the present war between France and Germany, which from the first murmur to the outbreak was a brief moment of time, as between the flash of lightning and the bursting of the thunder.

After reviewing the incidents which led to the challenge he described what he called the comedy of the war—Europe watching with dismay while the gauntlet was flung down, while on the other side of the Atlantic the interest was intense. Then ensued an incident, proper for comedy, if it had not become the declared cause of tragedy. The French Ambassador, Count Benedetti, following the King to Ems, his favoring watering-place, pressed him in successive interviews, when at last his Majesty, after ascertaining that he had come a third time on the same errand, let him know, with perfect politeness, by his adjutant in attendance, that he had nothing further to say to him, and this refusal to receive him was promptly communicated by telegraph for the information of the different German Governments.

THE NEXT STEP.

The French Cabinet took the next step in the duel. On the 15th of July the Prime Minister read from the tribune a manifesto, setting forth the griefs of France, being, first, the refusal of the Prussian King to promise for the future, and, secondly, his refusal to receive the French Ambassador, with the communication of this refusal, as was specially alleged, "officially to the Cabinets of Europe," and the paper concludes by announcing that on the proceeding day they had called out the reserves, and that, they should immediately take the measures necessary to guard the interests, the security, and the honor of France. This was war.

Mr. Sumner then described the scene in the French Chambers, the indignant protest of Thiers, the feeble replies of the Prime Minister, and the eloquence of Jules Favre. He then referred to the formal declaration of war and the preparations which followed.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

Throughout France, throughout Germany, the trumpet sounded, and, everywhere the people sprang to arms, as if the great horn of Orlando, after a sleep of ages, had sent forth once more its commanding summons. Not a town, not a village that the voice did not penetrate. Modern invention had supplied an ally beyond anything in fable. From all parts of France, from all parts of Germany, armed men leaped forward, leaving behind the charms of peace and the business of life. On each side the muster was mighty, armies counting by the hundred thousand. And now, before we witness the mutual slaughter, let us pause to consider the two parties, and the issue between them.

France and Germany are most unlike, and yet the peers of each other, while among the nations they are unsurpassed in civilization; each prodigious in resources, splendid in genius, and great in renown. No two nations are so nearly matched.

Plainly between these two neighboring powers there has been an unhappy antagonism, constant, if not increasing, partly from the memory of other days, and partly because France could not bear to witness that Germany unity which was a national right and duty. Often it has been said, that war was inevitable. But it has come at last by surprise, and on a question of form."

THE UNJUST PRETENSION OF FRANCE.

The lecture then went on to consider another branch of his subject, which he called the unjust pretension of France to interfere with the candidature of Hohenzollern.

By what title did France undertake to interfere with the choice of Spain? If the latter was so foolish as to seek a foreigner for a King, in doing a German first among Spaniards, by what title did any other power attempt to control its will? To state the question is to answer it. Beginning with an outrage on Spanish independence, which the Spain of an earlier day would have resented, the next outrage was on Germany, in assuming that an insignificant prince of that country, could not be permitted to accept the invitation—all of which, besides being of insufferable insolence, was in that worst dynastic spirit which looks to princes rather than to people. Plainly France was unjustifiable. When I say it was none of her business, I give it in the mildest condemnation. This was the first step in her monstrous blunder-crime.

A WAR OF SURPRISES.

The war, from the pretext at the beginning to the capitulation at Sedan, has been a succession of surprises, where the author of the pretext was a constant sufferer.

Germany, perhaps, had one surprise at the sudden adoption of the pretext for war. But the Empire has known nothing but surprise. A fatal surprise was the promptitude with which all the German States, outside of Austrian rule, accepted the leadership of Prussia, and joined their forces to hers. German unity stood firm, and this was the supreme surprise for France with which the war began.

Then came the manifest inferiority of the Imperial army, everywhere outnumbered, which was another surprise—the manifest inferiority of the Imperial artillery, also a surprise—the manifest inferiority of Imperial generals; still a surprise. Above these was a prevailing inefficiency and improvidence, which very soon became conspicuous, and this was a surprise. The strength of Germany, as now exhibited, was a surprise. And when the German armies entered France, every step was a surprise. Wissemburg was a surprise; so was Woerth; so was Beaumont; so was Sedan. Every encounter was a surprise. Abel Douay, the French General who fell bravely fighting at Wissemburg, the first sacrifice on the battle-field; was surprised; so was McMahon, not only at the beginning, but at the end. He thought that the King and Crown Prince were marching on Paris. So they were—but they turned aside for a few days to surprise a whole army of more than a hundred thousand men, terrible with cannon and newly invented implements of war, under a Marshal of France, and with an Emperor besides. As this succession of surprises was crowned with what seemed the greatest surprise of all, there remained a greater still in the surprise of the French Empire. No Greek Nemesis with unrelenting hand ever dealt more incessantly the unavoidable blows, until the Empire fell as a dead body falls, while the Emperor became a captive and the Empress a fugitive, with their only child a fugitive also.

LOUIS NAPOLEON.

The fall of Louis Napoleon is natural. It is hard to see how it could be otherwise, so long as we continue "To assert eternal Providence,

And justify the ways of God to man."

He then went to recount the number of crimes of Napoleon's life, his treason to the republic and his treachery to France.

THREE ESSENTIAL REASONS OF PEACE.

In arriving at terms of peace, there are at least three conditions which cannot be overlooked in the interest of civilization, and that the peace may be such in reality as in name, and not an armistice only,—three postulates which stand above all question, and dominate this debate, so that any essential departure from them must end in wretched failure.

The first is the natural requirement of Germany that there shall be completest guaranty against future aggression, containing what is so well known among us as "security for the future." Count Bismarck, with an exaggeration hardly pardonable, alleges more than twenty invasions of Germany by France, and declares that these must be stopped forever. The second condition is to be required is the natural requirement of France, that the guaranty, while sufficient, shall be such as not to wound needlessly the sentiments of the French people, or to offend any principles of public law. It is difficult to question these two postulates, at least in the abstract. Only when we come to the application is there opportunity for difference. The third postulate, demanded alike by justice and humanity, is the establishment of some rule by which the recurrence of such a barbarous duel shall be prevented. It will not be enough to obtain a guaranty for Germany; there must be a guaranty for civilization itself.

Mr. Sumner then considered the claims of Germany under two different heads—indemnity and guarantee. The moneyed indemnity which Prussian calculators were beginning to estimate would be considered and opposed by France as fabulous, consequential and remote. The practical question will be, Can one nation do wrong to another without paying for the damage, whatever it may be, direct or indirect, always provided that it be susceptible of estimate? Here I content myself with the remark that, while in the settlement of international differences there is no place for technicality, there is always room for moderation.

In reference to the guarantee of dismemberment, Mr. Sumner thought that France could not sell or transfer Alsace and Loraine against their consent. He favored the idea of disarmament in which security was to be found for Germany without offense to the just sentiment of France.

UPRISING OF THE WORKINGMEN.

The workingman of Europe, not excepting Germany, respond to the mandate of philosophy, and insist that the war system shall be abolished. At public meetings, in formal resolutions and addresses, they have declared war against war, and they will not be silenced. This is not the first time in which workingmen have made themselves heard for international justice. I cannot forget, that, while slavery was waging war against our nation the workingmen of Belgium, in public meeting, protested against that precious proclamation of belligerent rights by which the British Government gave such impulse to the rebellion; and now in the same spirit, and for the sake of true peace, they declare themselves against the war system by which the peace of nations is placed in such constant jeopardy. They are right; for nobody suffers in war as the workingman, whether in property or in person. For him war is a ravening monster, devouring his substance, and changing him from citizen to military serf. As victim of the war system he is entitled to be heard.

The workingmen of different countries have been organizing in societies, of which it is difficult at present to tell the number and extent. It is known that these societies exist in Germany, France, Spain, Italy and England, as well as in our country, and that they have in some measure an international character. In France, before the war, there were 433,785 men in the organization and in Germany 150,000. Yet this is but the beginning.

At the menace of the present war all these societies were roused. The society known as the Workingmen's Association, by their General Council, issued an address, dated at London protesting against it as "a war of dynasties," denouncing Louis Napoleon as an enemy of the laboring classes, and declaring the war plot of 1870 but an amended edition of the coup d'état of 1851.

Mr. Sumner elaborated this idea and branch of his lecture at great length, making copious quotations from time to time of the Workingmen's Peace Association.

THE REPUBLIC.

In the abolition of the war system the will of the people must become all-powerful, exalting the republic to its just place as the natural expression of citizenship. At St. Helena Napoleon uttered the famous prophecy, that in fifty years Europe would be republican or Cossack. The fifty years will expire in 1871. Evidently Europe will not be Cossack, unless the Cossack is already changed to republican—as well may be, when it is known that, since the great act of enfranchisement in February, 1860, by which twenty-three millions of serfs were raised to citizenship, with the right to vote, eleven thousand miles of railway have been opened in Russia, and fifteen thousand three hundred and fifty public schools. A better than Napoleon, who saw mankind with truer insight, Lafayette, has recorded a clearer prophecy. At the foundation of the monument on Bunker Hill, on the semi-centennial anniversary of the battle 18th June, 1825, our much-honored national guest gave as a toast: "Bunker Hill, and the holy resistance to oppression, which has already enfranchised the American hemisphere. The next half-century's jubilee toast shall be to enfranchised Europe." The close of that half century, already so prolific, is at hand. Shall it behold the great jubilee with all its vastness of promise accomplished? Enfranchised Europe, foretold by Lafayette means not only the Republic for all, but peace for all; it means the United States of Europe, with the war system abolished. Against that little faith through which so much fails in life, I declare my unutterable conviction that "government of the people, by the people and for the people"—thus simply described by Abraham Lincoln—is a necessity of civilization, not only because of that republican equality, without distinction of birth which it establishes, but for its assurance of permanent peace. All privilege is usurpation, and, like slavery, a state of war, relieved only by truce, to be broken by the people in their strength. To the people alone can mankind look for the repose of nations; but the republic is the embodied people, constituting the highest type of civilization! All hail to the republic, equal guardian of all, and angel of peace!

Our own part is simple. It is, first, to keep out of war—and, next, to stand firm in those ideas which are the life of the republic. Peace is our supreme vocation. To this we are called. By this we succeed. Our example is more than an army. But not on this account can we be indifferent, when human rights are assailed or republican institutions are in question. Garibaldi asks for a "word," that easiest expression of power. Strange will it be, when that is not given. To the republic, and to all struggling for human rights, I give word, with heart on the lips. Word and heart I give. Nor would I have my country forget at any time in the discharge of its transcendent duties, that, since the rule of conduct and of honor is the same for nations as for individuals, the gentest nation is that which does most for humanity.

SECRETARY COX AND CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The long talked-of correspondence between Secretary Cox and the President has at last been furnished for publication by the former, on his final retirement from the Cabinet. Its general purport coincides with the intimations previously given and the reference, in in the letter of Mr. Cox, to matters of a private and personal character, fully establish the propriety of the President's refusal to anticipate the action of the author in publishing its contents.

Mr. Cox bases his resignation upon two grounds. First: that the policy of the Interior Department on the Indian question and other measures of reform having incurred the displeasure of influential members of Congress, and his views of reformation in the Civil Service, having brought him into collision with the active political managers, he desired to relieve the President from the embarrassments arising from those causes of irritation in his Department; and second: that having originally accepted the position at a sacrifice of the prudently formed plans of his life and earnestly desiring to return to his private business as soon as he might do so without detriment to the public service, his retirement from official station at this time would be neither an inconvenience nor a disappointment.

To such a representation as this, the President could make but one reply, and in promptly acceding to the request of the Secretary he expressed his high appreciation of the zeal and ability with which he had performed his official duties, and conveyed the kindest wishes for his success in the sphere to which he was so gladly returning, with the hope that his future relations would prove as pleasant as those which had existed between themselves in the past.

The publication of the letters will doubtless be the occasion of another crusade against the President, and we shall have a renewal of the assertions that he has surrendered to the politicians, that Mr. Cox has been sacrificed at the behest of demagogues, and that the administration has ceased to have a mind or will of its own. The Democratic press will naturally make the most of this pretext and the quasi-Republicans who are seeking to ride into power on the hobby of reform, will continue to vent their spite upon the Executive for refusing to aid their scheme for the disruption of the party which elected him.

There is no doubt that in the resignation of Secretary Cox, the public service has lost a zealous and efficient officer; but in view of the manner in which he urged his release from a position held to the detriment of his personal welfare, it does not appear that the President could have consistently taken any other course than the one pursued. He could hardly justify himself, on the plea of public necessity, in demanding a still farther sacrifice of the present desires of the Secretary, and the retention of an officer in a position which had become distasteful and from which he had expressed an earnest wish to retire, could afford little promise of advantage to the public interests. Moreover, we are inclined to presume that Mr. Cox, in his zeal to apply an instant remedy to evils of long growth and difficult of treatment, has been led to magnify the difficulties of his position, and by an unnecessary susceptibility to all the little aggravations of official life, rendered himself uncomfortable and added to the annoyances that beset the President.

In accepting a position in the Cabinet, Mr. Cox was fully aware, from his own experience in political life, of the system of dispensing public patronage which has been in practice for years; and while it was commendable, to use every effort for the correction of abuses and increasing the efficiency of the service, the wisdom of attempting to reform the whole political system of the country by peremptorily banishing from one department all the usages which have grown by the force of custom into a recognized policy, and which were still in force throughout the other departments of the government, may be seriously questioned. The reform of the Civil Service of the country is a matter which has been earnestly studied by the most eminent statesmen, and its discussion has employed the best minds in the country; but as yet the intricacies of detail and complicated principles involved in a question so comprehensive, have proved obstacles to any satisfactory solution, and no system of reform has yet been presented which commands the general approval.

The reform of the Civil Service must commence with the people, and until the whole political system of the country is revolutionized it is idle to waste breath in denouncing the collection of contributions from public officers for political purposes. In every hamlet, town, and county, money is habitually expended by both parties to defray the costs of partizan canvassing. No intelligent person supposes that the use of halls for speaking is gratuitously given, that orators invited from distant States defray their own expenses, that political pamphlets are printed for nothing or that advertisements, ballots, bands of music, decorations, banners, and all the paraphernalia of a campaign are furnished without money and without price.

Who then would be most likely to furnish the funds required for these purposes? Plainly, those who have always done so, the individuals who have the most immediate pecuniary interest in the success of their party. If this custom prevails throughout the land down to the smallest local election, it is a natural consequence that the same usages should obtain in carrying on a national canvass, and until the people recognize their duty as citizens sufficiently to induce every man to inform himself by reading and observation of the issues to be decided and to go to the polls without exhortation, advice or assistance; or a system of taxation for political purposes is adopted the expense of political campaigns will continue to be defrayed by those who derive from them their direct pecuniary emoluments.

Mr. Cox's mistake would seem to consist in climbing to the top of the tree and then attempting to hack off a branch between himself and the trunk, instead of taking the slower and surer method, of assisting to devise means for cutting it down and tearing up the roots. The Secretary has conceded the principle involved by expressing a willingness that his subordinates should voluntarily contribute to these funds, and it was certainly very easy for him to provide that no compulsion or intimidation should be exercised. Enthusiastic zeal in the best of causes, is likely to lead to indiscretion, and however honestly Mr. Cox may have desired to improve and purify the public service, his precipitating of this question of political reform, as he admits, in advance of public sentiment, is a similar example of the desire for instant accomplishment, to the proclamations of freedom to the slaves which so embarrassed President Lincoln in his efforts to retain that popular support required for the salvation of the country. Emancipation came, but not by the decree of a division General; and Civil service reform will come, though not by the manifesto of a single Cabinet officer.

CUBA. Letters from Havana, dated the 18th ult., announce that there are still some cases of vomito in that city, and there have been a few cases of cholera. The damage from the hurricane at Matanzas is estimated at six millions of dollars, and within the jurisdiction of that city, twelve millions. Bodies are constantly washed ashore. A dispatch states that two fillibustering schooners from the United States have been captured near Nuevitas by the Spanish authorities. They were laden with arms and clothing for the insurgents. Four of the crew were captured. The Panama and West India cable expedition has sailed from Aspinwall. The paying out was going on successfully and the signals were perfect.

JAMES FISK, JR., ON THE STUMP. At the grand Tammany ratification meeting in New York on Thursday evening, the speaking in the main hall was commenced by an oration on canals by Horatio Seymour, and wound up with the delivering of Fisk, Jr.'s maiden effort on the stump, which we find reported as follows:—

In response to a general call for Jubilee Fisk, that gentleman got up and treated his audience to an opera bouffe speech. He said: "Gentlemen, there was no introduction necessary to bring us together—you know me and I know you. (Shout good for Jubilee). Gentlemen, this is a jubilee, however you may connect me with it. It is a Democratic jubilee. (Applause.) And I am, as you know me all, Jubilee Jim Fisk. (Tremendous cheering.) Gentlemen, if there is any mother's son of you desires to speak, I prefer that you should speak and relieve me of the trouble. (Cries of "Go it, Fisk.") With regard to the Democratic party, that, I find, in power here to-night; it is the power that you have to sustain. I am in for it, and so are you. (Cheers and cries of "So we are.") I, myself never voted a Democratic ticket before, but I am going the whole Tweed Democratic ticket on the 8th of November next. (Applause. I did not know that I was expected here at all till I saw my name in the newspapers, and the papers generally tell the truth. So I take it, but you know how it is yourself. (Great cheering.) I had some hesitancy in appearing before you, but now consider myself bound to the Democratic party with twenty-five thousand votes under me pledged to vote for Hoffman. (Applause.) By some means the Erie Railroad has been mentioned in connection with the Tammany Ring. I wish it distinctly understood that is a gross misconception, for they never asked a favor of me, and if they did it would be readily granted. From my knowledge of Republicans I have little faith in Republican administrations, for I have had reason to regret knowing them. I am heart and soul with the Democracy, and if I find an opportunity, shall vote the straight ticket three times a day all along. (Cheers.) There must be in the air; and as the Democratic leaders thought proper to bring me in second fiddle, I'm here to that tune all the time. (Applause.) The enthusiasm all around me is not for me personally, but for the party, the great Democratic party, who are all anxious to win in the coming contest. I am with them and with free ticket for the matinee on Saturday next and three cheers for the Democratic ticket. I am still yours, Jubilee Fisk. (Great applause.)

The meeting then adjourned.

THE RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY COX.

Hon. J. D. Cox, late Secretary of the Interior has furnished the following correspondence for publication:

STATEN ISLAND, Sept. 30, 1870.

My Dear Sir—When Congress adjourned in the summer I was credibly informed that a somewhat systematic effort would be made before their re-assembling in the winter, to force a change in the policy we have pursued in the Interior Department. The removal of the Indian service from the sphere of ordinary political patronage has been peculiarly distasteful to many influential gentlemen in both Houses, and in order to enable you to carry out your purpose successfully, I am satisfied that you ought not to be embarrassed by any other causes of irritation in the same department.

My views of the necessity of reform in the civil service have brought me more or less into collision with the plans of our active political managers, and my sense of duty has obliged me to oppose some of their methods of action through the Department. I have no doubts whatever that the public sentiment will sooner or later fully sustain these efforts at what I regard as needed reforms; but I ought not to overlook the fact that for the present they involve opposition which it may not be for the interest of this administration to provoke, and as my personal tendency is to be rather more than less persistent in the cause to which I am committed, I deem it my duty to place in your hands my resignation of the office of Secretary of the Interior, to take effect as soon as you may conveniently determine upon my successor. The annual report of the department must be made at an early day, and for this and other reasons I believe the interval prior to the assembling of the next session of Congress is the fittest for such a change. I trust you will permit me to add that the original acceptance of the position was an interference with the plans of my life, formed, as I thought, with prudence. I return to my private business, which so far from being an occasion of violence or disappointment will only be carrying out what I have most desired to do as soon as it can be done without inconvenience or embarrassment to you or a sacrifice to public interests.

Judging that you might already have been assailed by suggestions on the subject, I have felt it due to you to write at once, without waiting for my return to Washington. With sincere assurances of my strong desire for the complete success of your administration,

I remain, truly, your ob't serv't,
(Signed) J. D. COX.

To the President.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, D. C., Oct. 5, 1870.

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the 30th ult., tendering your resignation as Secretary of the Interior, is just received. As suggested by you, it will be accepted to take effect upon the completion of the annual report of the Department now being prepared to accompany my Message to Congress.

In parting company, permit me to say that I highly appreciate the zeal and ability you have ever shown in discharging your official duties. I hope your relations in the new sphere you have pointed out for yourself will prove as pleasant as our relations have been in the past, to the end that you may fully realize your highest expectations.

With the highest regard, Your obedient servant,
U. S. GRANT.

Hon. J. D. Cox, Sec'y of the Interior.

Denomination of $1000, each.

For sale at 95 and accrued interest, in currency. This road is almost a direct line from Selma, in Alabama, to Pensacola, in Florida. The credit of the State of Alabama is deservedly high. She has always met her indebtedness of every nature, as it matured, and was the only one of the Southern States that paid her interests regularly during the late civil war. The currency Bonds of Alabama now stand above par in New York. These Bonds are not only a First lien upon a valuable line of Railroad, but are also an obligation of the State of Alabama, wholly as binding as any form of State Bonds. The most eminent legal authority has confirmed this statement. Government and other securities taken at market rates in exchange. Copies of the Act endorsing the Bonds of the Selma and Gulf Railroad can be seen, and further information obtained, on application to J. B. FOSTER, Agent.

After reading this document the Representatives of the three allied powers observed that they did not think they could proceed further without the presence of the Envoy of Bolivia, who has not yet reached this country. The Conference then adjourned until his arrival which will take place in two or three weeks.

Hon. John L. Stevens, U. S. Minister to Uruguay, in a recent letter to a friend in Augusta, dated Montevideo Sept 11th, says that nearly or quite half of all the American ships which come to that port, were built in Maine, a good portion of them owned or partly owned in Maine, and he thinks quite half of all the captains are from Maine and Massachusetts. The largest and best built ships now in that port are from Maine.

—The demand for over-shoes was immense yesterday.

—Venison is dear meat, just now, but considerable quantities are brought to this market.

—Potatoes are selling in Dover for 45 cents per bushel, good hay at $18 per ton, and dry hard wood at $6 per cord.

—We learn that Senator Morrill's health is improving very slowly, though he is still confined to his room.

—During the month of August there went over the E. & N. A. R. from Mattawamkeag 282 cattle, 1047 sheep; and in September, up to the 23d, 103 cattle and 3780 sheep.

—Our Foxcroft correspondent writes that Messrs. D. S. & E. W. Bailey have put up a building for a machine shop on the site of the old hoe and fork factory.

Portland has been saved from a second great conflagration by Sebago water. Will Bangor ever have the same benefit from Hat Case?

—The police seized yesterday on the premises of Wm. McCarty & John Gallagher, on Exchange street, two bottles, a pitcher, a jug and a gallon measure all containing small quantities of whiskey.

—We noticed yesterday at Kidder & Rice's market the beef of an ox weighing when dressed, 1345 lbs. The ox was raised by Mr. Benjamin P. Gilman of Orono.

—A horse with a heavy load of lime and mortar, slipped and fell while going up Hammond street yesterday, but was got up safely with the assistance of the crowd which always gathers on such occasions.

—About the muddiest, nastiest place in Bangor is where the plank sidewalk has been removed on Hammond street, near Court.—Concrete, plank or gravel is greatly needed there.

—An Episcopal church edifice is about to be erected at Winn Village. This St. Paul's Mission is under the care of Rev. Mr. Webster of Oldtown. The site selected is in the midst of a grove on an eminence at the lower end of the village.

—Mr. H. N. Greeley is to open the American House in Dover to the public, on Wednesday evening. The programme of the evening embraces a dance, supper and "general good time," writes our correspondent.

—Yesterday morning a youngster of six winters, rejoicing in a new pair of cowhides, the legs of which were pulled up over his diminutive trowsers, while tramping about bravely in the wet snow, was heard shouting to a playmate, "Say, Billy, don't you wish you had boots so you could come out and slosh?"

SERIOUS CASUALTY. Our correspondent, "W. W. G.," writes that on Sunday evening, as two young ladies named Bradford, employed in Dexter, were returning from their home in St. Albans, whither they had been to spend the sabbath, their team came in collision with another, and they were thrown out with such violence that both were seriously injured—one, it is feared, fatally.

—We regret to learn of the death on Saturday of Dr. Charles B. Robinson of Dixmont, at the age of 28 years. Although young, he had won an enviable position in his profession, and was highly respected and esteemed by all who knew him. He will be buried with Masonic honors at 11 o'clock this forenoon.

—Last night was "Cabbage-head night" in Bangor. A curious tenet has obtained full belief among the young Bangoreans of Hibernian descent, that all cabbages left out in gardens after the 31st of October, are the property of the first—comer, and in consequence, a cabbage carnival occurs annually on the night of that day. No one seems to know how this belief originated, but "sich it is," and the young vandals respect nothing but a big day or a revolver in their raids.

BOY MISSING. Yesterday morning, Fred, age 11 years, son of J. J. Smith, residing at No. 50 York St., left his father's house to go to school, since which he has not been seen by the family. The school boys report him as attending school in the forenoon, but since then, know nothing of his whereabouts. He was dressed in dark jacket and pants, and light vest, and wore a brown felt hat when he left home.

THE WEATHER. A snow-storm commenced soon after 4 o'clock yesterday morning and continued up to about 11, in the forenoon, when it turned to rain, which continued to fall until between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening. During the forenoon, the street presented quite a wintry appearance, but the rain soon turned the fallen snow to "slosh" of the nastiest sort. The snow-storm to the north of us was much heavier. Our Foxcroft correspondent writes that teams started from that place for the Lake, with loads upon sleds, sleighs were used in the streets, and it seemed as if winter had really arrived.

FATAL ACCIDENT. On Saturday, Michael Goggin, gang head-stockman in A. G. Ring's mill in Orono, went into the basement of the mill to examine the bearings while the machinery was in motion. Going too near the fly-wheel, his clothing was caught in it and he was so horribly bruised and mangled that he lived but an hour after the accident. Mr. Goggin has been in Mr. Ring's employ for six or eight years and was much respected. He was about 25 years of age and was to have been married in two weeks.

FIRE. Shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday, an extremely mild alarm of fire, was given, which hardly anybody heard, and very few attended to. At the first alarm, one of the steamers was taken to the fire, which was the house and stable of Mr. Eber L. Steward, on State street, nearly a half mile from the bridge; but the flames had made such rapid progress that the whole buildings were destroyed when the steamer arrived. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defect in the chimney as Mr. Steward's little daughter built a fire to cook dinner with and went to a neighbor's, when upon looking out a short time after she saw the roof of the house in flames. Very little was saved from the house, and all the furniture, wearing apparel, &c., was destroyed. We learn that there was an insurance of $900 on the buildings and $000 on the furniture, in the Union of Bangor. It is about time for Bangor to to have some practical system of fire alarms, whereby the locality of a conflagration can be at once made known in all parts of the city.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT WATERVILLE. The telegraph informed us of the death by suffocation of "Joseph McCluskey" in the lock-up at Waterville Saturday night. Our correspondent, "F. T.," writes us full particulars, by which it appears that the man's name was Joseph Loderick. He was lodged in the lock-up Saturday evening by officer Edwards, for making a disturbance at a dance held by the French. About 11 o'clock at night, a smoke was discovered issuing from the cell where Loderick was confined. The door was opened after considerable delay, and the prisoner was found so nearly suffocated that he died in a few moments. Matches were found on his body, and it is supposed that he set his bed on fire, as he was intoxicated at the time. Many stories are afloat as to the cause of his death, but the above are the facts. Deceased was a young man, of French extraction.

WAR NOTES.

Baron Gerolt, the Prussian Minister at Washington, has received from Count Bismarck the following statement of the consequences to which Paris will be exposed by a prolonged resistance:

"The conditions of the armistice offered to Jules Favre, intended as a basis for the re-establishment of order in France, have been rejected by him and his colleagues. They thereby decree the continuance of the struggle which, according to the course of the late events, appears without a chance of success for the French people. Since then the prospects of France, in this war so full of sacrifices, have still further declined. Toul and Strasbourg have fallen, Paris is closely surrounded and German troops are advancing by the Loire. The large forces heretofore engaged near the above fortresses are now at the free disposal of the German commanders. The country has to bear the consequences of the war à l'outrance decreed by the French authorities in Paris. Its sacrifices will be unnecessarily increased and its social condition will suffer more and more dangerous decomposition. The commander of the German armies does not find himself in a situation to counteract this, but he perceives clearly the consequences of the resistance shown by the powers in France, and feels compelled to call general attention to one point, namely: "The special condition of Paris." The heaviest attacks heretofore made from this capital on the 10th and 20th of last month, in which the elite of the armies collected in that city have been unable to throw back the first line of the besieging forces lead to the conviction that the capital will fall sooner or later. If the time of surrender is postponed by the Provisional Government for National Defense until the threatening want of provisions necessitates capitulation, most terrible results must follow. The unwise destruction of railroad bridges and canals within a certain distance around Paris by the French, has not been able to stop for a moment the advance of the German armies. All communications by land or water needed for military operations have been re-established in a very short time. These repairs naturally regard military interests exclusively, while other destructions, even after capitulation, will prevent, for a long time the communication of the capital with the Provinces. It will be an absolute impossibility for the German commanders when the case occurs to provide for one single day's rations for a population of nearly two millions. The environs of Paris, to the distance of several days' journey, since all the stores here are necessarily required for the use of the German troops, will then offer no resources and will not permit the inhabitants of Paris to evacuate by the roads into the country.—The inevitable result would be the starvation of hundreds of thousands. The persons in power in France cannot fail to discern these consequences as clearly as the German commanders, and since, to the latter, nothing is left but to carry on the war proffered, the rulers of France are responsible for forcing such extremities."

A MODEL DEMOCRATIC OFFICE-HOLDER. In the examination of Theodore Allen before Police Justice Cox of New York, on a charge of perjury, supposed to have been instigated by Senator Michael Norton, an active city politician, one John Glennon, who had brought the charge against Allen, was examined, and the following curious story was brought out:

First—Police Justice Cox said: "I have known Mr. Glennon for years, and I think that he will tell the truth."

Second—Mr. Glennon was induced to give the following interesting account of himself:

Q. Were you brought up to a trade? A. No sir.

Q. When you were twenty-one years of age what did you do? A. I was a bartender for Mr. Ruiferly down in Hudson street; I afterward tended bar for Mr. Moran in the same place, I stopped tending bar for him about two years ago; I then took the place of Inspector of Lights and Gas; or something or other, in the Street Department, and held it until the department was abolished.

Q. Where did you live when you became inspector? A. I lived at No. 116 Varick street, with the same gentleman that I now live with. Mr. Michael Norton got me the place in the Street Department.

Q. What place do you hold now? A. I hold a place in the Public Works Department as a water policeman; at the same time I work for Mr. Cauary; I keep books for him; he is a livery stable keeper; the firm is Canary & Norton; it is Michael Norton.

Q. How much salary do you get? A. I don't get any salary.

Q. In that time what other place have you held? A. I held a place in the County Clerk's office as a clerk; I held the place near a year, and still hold it; Mr. Charles E. Loew, the candidate, appointed me.

Q. What was the salary. A. Nine hundred dollars.

Q. Who drew the salary for you?

District Attorney Blunt—I object; the question is irrelevant.

Q. What name did you have in the Water Police?

District Attorney Blunt—I object; it is irrelevant.

Q. What other place did you hold or have you held during that time? A. None.

Q. Are you Secretary of any Association? A. I am; the Norton Association.

Q. How many hours are you employed in the County Clerk's office in the discharge of your duty? A. I never occupied any time in the County Clerk's office.

Q. What time do you occupy as a water policeman? A. I never spend any time.

Q. Did you occupy these places in the County Clerk's office and the water police in the same name?

District Attorney Blunt—I object; it is immaterial.

Judge Cox—I sustain the objection. The question is irrelevant to the issue. I would object if Mr. Glennon tried to answer it.

THE TILTON-FULTON LAGER-BEER IMBROGLIO. Theodore Tilton seems determined to have the last word in the Lager controversy and the Boston Traveller having stated that Mr. T. had acknowledged the truth of Rev. Mr. Fulton's statement to his congregation in every important particular, Theodore publishes the following flat denial:

"I have made no error in Mr. Fulton's case and therefore have none to retract. On the contrary, the original charge which I made against that person I stand ready to prove in a court of justice on the testimony of a New York merchant whom I have known for many years, who is known and respected by many merchants and other citizens of Boston, and whose veracity is as unimpeachable as that of Gov. Claflin. If Mr. Fulton, instead of conveniently withdrawing, his threatened libel suit, will invite me into a court of justice, I will there prove that his reverence drank several glasses of lager bier in a 'Bowery saloon on a Sunday night after preaching a sermon in the city of New York. I hope that this statement is so plain that every Boston newspaper will 'now' at last understand it."

PREPARING FOR THE NEW YORK ELECTION. The Police Superintendent Kelso, of N. Y., City has issued a circular to the force calling attention to their duties during the days of registration and election. All Federal and State officers must be protected in the discharge of their duty, while the access of voters to the polls must be kept open and unobstructed. It adds there is no doubt of the ability of the police to preserve peace and maintain order and repeats with emphasis that access to the polls must be kept open. Mayor Hall has issued a proclamation offering a reward of one hundred dollars to any one causing the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of false registration.

EXTENSIVE FIRE IN BOSTON. At about one o'clock yesterday morning a fire was discovered in the stable of R. C. Nims, No. 6 Mason St., Boston, which completely destroyed that, together with twenty-five horses and a number of carriages and harnesses; also the lager beer and boarding houses of Charles Weber and John Kuhn, and the rear of the boarding and hack stable of Howard & Hackett. At one time the Boston Theatre and Adams House were both in great danger.—Mr. Chamberlain, the landlord of the Adams House, lost two span of horses, one valued at $2000 and the other at $1200.

THE TEHUANTEPEC RAILROAD. Advices from Mexico to the 11th ult., state that the first articles of the Tehuantepec Railroad Bill have passed and the balance will follow next week. The company have asked for a grant to build a railroad from Mexico to Touchenango. Mr. Nelson has signified his willingness to assist in settling the border difficulties. It is rumored that Placido Vegas has been assassinated with the connivance of Lozada.

Generals Burnside and Sheridan and other distinguished Americans arrived at Brussels Saturday.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The President on Saturday signed the commission of Columbus Delano as Secretary of the Interior from Nov. 1. He also appointed Benj. F. Farquhar of Mass, Consul of Bombay, Wm. H. Thomson, R. I., Consul at Cork, Arthur Livermore of N. H., Consul at Londonderry. Secretary Cox retired from the Interior Department Saturday, and with his family would immediately leave Washington for Ohio.

The census of New York city is at once to be retaken under the auspices of the Municipal Government with a view to the coming election.

Gov. McClurg of Missouri has written a letter to the St. Louis Times opposing the constitutional amendment enfranchising rebels. J. Milton Turner, a popular colored orator on McClurg's side, who has taken strong grounds against the constitutional amendment during the canvass, came out in favor of them in a speech Saturday night and announced himself as an independent candidate for Congress in that district.

A letter recently received by a prominent Maine Republican from Gen. Woodford, the Republican candidate for Governor, states that "by the blessing of God, and the aid of the military in enforcing the registration laws in New York city and Brooklyn," he has great hope of an election.

The steamer Pereire, which sailed from New York Saturday, took a few recruits for the French army, 85,000 stand of arms and a half million cartridges and a quantity of military stores and provisions. The cargo is valued at nearly $800,000. The steamer ... tario is loading a similar cargo and will sail during the week.

FRANCE VERSUS GERMANY.

BY L. U. OBT.

August 2, 1870—SAARBRUCK.
September 2, 1870—SEDAN.

Who could have dreamed it so,
Just one short month ago?
When the proud Despot started for the Rhine.
With all his armies vast, in serried line,
(In sooth a gallant show!)
Whom, at Saarbruck, the first shot was hurled,
Whose thunder echoed round a startled world—
That ere the month were past—
His armies shattered, and their prestige gone,
Most of his friends, his power, his stolen crown—
His overthrow complete—
The Exiler thus would haste
All abjectly to cast
The unflushed sword, so lately girded on!
With such brave words ere yet it had been drawn—
Down at his Conqueror's feet!
Sure, since in conflict first . . .
Man with his fellow-man to battle waged,
Was this, in which the Tyrant thron engaged,
Most ominous, most accursed!
And, since the heavens . . .
Was from his giddy height of power hurled,
No Despot's utter fall has dazed the world,
Wrought in so brief a space!

The Nationswho at peace
Each year's long fullness cleaned
Its wealth by industry and those wise arts
Which truest greatness to a land imparts,
Each spoils with France alone!
Each needed time and rest to heal past scars,
Each had large debt to pay for bygone wars,
Each has enough of Glory won!
It was not FRANCE with GERMANY that hurled,
It was the Despot who with Freedom warred,
As he had ever done!
The Traitor, who confiding France betrayed,
The Perjurer, who mocked all oaths so made;
Who, seeking thus to prop his tottering throne,
So he might save the Empire to his Son—
His shallow, false pretext,
Proclaimed the War which has let loose this flood
Of Death and Carnage, Wound and Strife and Blood,
Never dreaming that the next
Entering record in the Book of Fate
Should be as full! Nor lingered we to wait
To read in language plain,
The judgments just of Him who cannot err—
Let Heaven FALLEN! cast down, like Lucifer,
Never to rise again!

Now let the conflict cease!
And, since the usurper from his power is hurled,
Against hot white-robed Peace
Spread her fair mantle o'er a gladdened world!

Nor Him, or such as he,
No earthly law shield
And while he fell his cohorts to the fight,
Arrayed against him reason, truth and right,
Ours a republics build only by such tires
Who stood for "Fatherland" against their foes,
And still with them it lies,
So long as they shall seek but just redress
For their late wrongs—can ever expect no less;
Yet must no sympathize
With FRANCE too, with the sword club 'gainst her breast,
Not drawn and pointed only now; but pressed,
For us to see worse saddest sight on earth—
Her young Republic strangled in its birth!
Never can we forget
The name of LAFAYETTE!
Who, when our land struggled for its birth
Against the mightiest power of the earth,
Eight, weak and sore dismayed,
Rode us her vital aid,
Mixed though her motives were in doing so,
Part love for us, part hatred of our foe,
Still, for the hour, our gratitude we owed
And can we see, harassed,
In arms, an overwhelming foe, in FRANCE,
Even to Nat. capital advanced,
Without regret for her? . . . any test but by
FRANCE, claims and must receive our sympathy!

And GERMANY, no less,
Who, in our sore distress,
When foul Rebellion reared its impious head:
And FORT SUMTER gave first note to trifling discord!
Which FRANCE—not FRANCE, but her Imperial Such . . .
Preferred in Mexico that filthy job
While, at the saddest strife it ever saw,
The world-stricken world looked on in awe—
Then all Germania through,
The German heart beat true,
In quickest sympathy with our distress,
While Germans here . . . gathered,
The German faith no'er faltered
In our just cause, and in its full success!
They felt the proud pride for which we fought,
Sustained our credit and our bonds still bought;
While Germans here, spread over all our land,
Rallied around the Flag, with heart and hand,
And German blood, mingled with our own,
Flowed freely, till the Nation's life was won!

So, can we now be blamed,
That with both Nations, thus we sympathized?
That we would fain see neither made a prize,
But rather Peace proclaimed?
That thus we still may speak
Our warmest wishes for both nations grand
Our mingled cries of Vive la belle Germanie! and, (
Of—Lebe hoch das Deutsche Vaterland
And Vive la République!

Convention between the United States of America and France concerning Trade Marks.

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas a convention between the United States of America and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French was concluded and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries at the city of Washington on the sixteenth day of April last, which convention, being in the English and French languages, is word for word as follows:—

The United States of America and his Majesty the Emperor of the French, desiring to secure in their respective territories a guarantee of property in trade marks have resolved to conclude a special convention for this purpose, and have named as their plenipotentiaries: the President of the United States, Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State, and his Majesty the Emperor of the French, J. Berthemy, Commander of the Imperial Order of the Legion of Honor &c. &c. &c., accredited as his envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States; and the said plenipotentiaries, after an examination of their respective full powers, which were found to be in good and due form, have agreed to and signed the following articles:—

Every reproduction in one of the two countries of trade marks affixed in the other to certain merchandise to prove its origin and quality, is forbidden, and legal steps instituted for an action for damages in favor of the injured party, to be prosecuted in the courts of the country in which the counterfeit shall be proven, just as if the plaintiff were a subject or citizen of that country.

The exclusive right to use a trade mark for the benefit of citizens of the United States in France, or of French subjects in the territory of the United States, cannot exist for a longer period than that fixed by the laws of the country for its own citizens.

If the trade mark in question be private property in the country of its origin, it shall be equally free to all in the other country.

If the owners of trade marks, residing in either of the two countries, wish to secure their rights in the other country, they must deposit duplicate copies of those marks in the proper office at Washington, and in the clerk's office of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine, at Paris.

This present arrangement shall take effect ninety days after the exchange of ratifications of the two governments, and shall continue in force for ten years from this date.

In case neither of the two high contracting parties gives notice of its intention to discontinue the convention twelve months before its expiration, it shall remain in force one year from the time that either of the high contracting parties announces its discontinuance.

The ratifications of this present arrangement shall be exchanged at Washington within ten months, or sooner, if possible.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate and affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Done at Washington, the sixteenth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

(SEAL) HAMILTON FISH.
(SEAL) BERTHEMY.

And whereas the said convention has been duly ratified on both parts, and the respective ratifications of the same were exchanged at Washington on the 30 instant, by HOBART, acting Secretary of State of the United States, and Count Piverogny charge d'affaires of his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French at Washington, on the part of their respective governments:

Now, Therefore, I, ULYSSES S. GRANT, President of the United States of America, have caused the said convention to be made public to the end that the same and every clause and article thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and citizens thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.
